Tweet Tweet The debate on whether the Carolina Panthers should take Auburn quarterback Cam Newton with the No. 1 overall pick in the draft has been swirling for months. That's probably going to continue right up until the draft at the end of April.

[+] EnlargeAP Photo/Todd J. Van EmstCam Newton has tremendous upside,make your own basketball jersey, but he carries enormous risk as well.There are lots of mixed views of Newton and I see both sides. But I just got a transcript of a conference call that ESPN draft guru Mel Kiper Jr. did with the national media. In just a few sentences,nfl jersey sales,kids hockey jersey,nike nfl 2012, I think Kiper summarized the entire Newton debate as well as anyone I've seen or heard.

"He's the one player in this draft that presents the biggest upside and he's the one player in this draft that presents the biggest risk,nfl jerseys cheap,mlb throwback jerseys, and that's Cam Newton,youth baseball jersey," Kiper said. "If you hit with Newton,custom nfl football jerseys, you're going to have a sensational NFL quarterback down the road. But if you miss,Youth Football Jersey,mlb replica jersey, it sets you back three,new nfl jerseys by nike,replica baseball jersey, four or five years. That's what it does to any quarterback you miss on that you take in the first round. Not in the second round,nfl jersey, but if you miss in the first round and you take a quarterback in the top 10 it will set you back three,football practice jersey,nike basketball jerseys, four or five years. That is where the big risk and upside is with Newton. Newton is a one-year wonder. Akili Smith was a one-hit wonder out of Oregon and look what happened to him with the Cincinnati Bengals. So that's the issue."

Let's continue to debate this one in the comments section and in our upcoming NFC South chats. It makes for great conversation.

But in the end,Hornets Basketball Jerseys,duke basketball jersey, it's all going to come down to the Panthers deciding if Newton is worth the risk or not.

The Saints have a very solid starting offensive line, stanford football jersey, create your own nfl jersey, but the recent release of backup Jamar Nesbit makes the signing of Leckey important. He can play center and guard and probably is the top interior backup at the moment.

The Saints just officially announced they've re-signed a couple of their own free agents. Offensive linemen Nick Leckey and safety Pierson Prioleau have agreed to one-year contracts.

AP Photo/Mark Humphrey Vikings coach Brad Childress is calling out the Saints for trying to hurt Brett Favre. EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. -- We won't have the X-Files scandal to keep our attention over the next week, design your own nfl jersey, so we're moving on to Plan B: The aggressiveness with which the New Orleans Saints will come after Minnesota Vikings quarterback Brett Favre in Thursday night's regular season opener.

If you recall, nike nfl jerseys, authentic nhl jerseys cheap, the Saints put a beating on Favre in last January's NFC Championship Game, personalized nfl jersey, collecting two personal fouls in the process. The NFL later acknowledged a third penalty should have been called. The game left Favre with bruises on his ankle and thigh -- he said Sunday that the photographs that surfaced of his injuries were taken three days after the game -- and led Vikings coach Brad Childress to accuse the Saints of hitting him outside the spirit of the NFL's rules.

[+] EnlargeAP Photo/Mark HumphreyThe Saints put a beating on Brett Favre in the NFC title game, collecting two personal fouls in the process. Childress reiterated those sentiments Sunday, telling New Orleans reporters: "What I hate to see are late hits or attempts to hurt anybody. I don't think there's a place for that in the game."

Asked if he thought that happened last January, football jersey design, Childress said: "Yes, nike nfl football, I would have to say that, custom nhl jerseys, nike football nfl, game worn nhl jerseys, yes."

Let's get something out of the way right now: There is no way that Saints defensive coordinator Gregg Williams is going to change his approach. Childress knows it, football jerseys cheap, Favre knows it and Saints coach Sean Payton essentially said as much Sunday. Childress' best hope is that a public discussion leading up to the game brings the issue to the attention of the eyes that matter -- i.e. game officials -- in hopes of maximizing the chance for penalties and warnings. After all, new nfl uniforms nike, womens nhl jerseys, I doubt the NFL wants to see a future Hall of Fame quarterback taking post-throw hits all night in their marquee national season opener.

To his credit, nhl jersey history, nike nfl concept uniforms, nhl jersey shop, Favre refused to join in on the discussion and actually welcomed the type of all-in blitzes the Saints specialize in. (More on that latter topic Tuesday.)

"Had it been us doing that to [Saints quarterback Drew Brees], discount nfl jerseys, nfl football jersey, cheap baseball hats, we probably wouldn't feel that way, cool nfl jerseys, 2012 nike nfl uniforms," Favre said. "They would be getting those questions. It's football. If you're able get the opposing quarterback out. ... Are there cheap hits that happen occasionally? In every game. The ones on the quarterback are more obvious. People see them."

The Saints might do it with a little more machismo, new nike nfl uniforms, but face it: Every team wants to knock out the opposing quarterback. Not every team has a defensive coordinator like Williams, personalized nfl football jerseys, hockey jersey builder, who told USA Today this summer that "we have to do better in sending messages to every offense about how physical it's going to be when they play us. Those messages are out there, nfl jersey shop, starting with No. 4 [Favre]."

But it's not as if the Saints have some kind of novel approach. Success often relies in some part on pushing the envelope. You just hear the Saints talking more about it than some others. And last year, dallas stars hockey jersey, nfl store, it helped them with the Super Bowl.

"I thought they played with great energy and effort, alabama football jersey, wholesale nike nfl Jerseys," Payton said of his defense in the January matchup. "I thought there was one foul that was called. Certainly you could make a case one way or the other, personalized football jersey, but ultimately the next weekend, oregon ducks football jersey, or two weekends later, nhl hockey jersey, youth nfl football jerseys, [we] played in Miami for the Super Bowl."

And isn't that the bottom line?

These aren't huge moves, nfl jersey me, michigan state football jersey, but they are steps towards keeping the depth that helped the Saints win the Super Bowl. Prioleau wasn't much of a factor in the secondary last season but he led the team with 21 tackles on special teams and has experience with defensive coordinator Gregg Williams dating back to their days together in Jacksonville.
